State Senator LeRoy Stumpf will not seek reelection

ST. PAUL, Minn. -- Minnesota's senior Senator, LeRoy Stumpf (DFL-Plummer) announced that he will not seek reelection to the Senate in 2016. Sen. Stumpf, who chairs the Senate Capital Investment Committee, has served in the legislature since 1980, including two years in the House of Representatives before joining the Senate in 1982.

"I announce that I will not seek reelection to the Minnesota Senate this fall. It has been a great honor to advocate in the Minnesota Senate for the people of Northwestern Minnesota and I am most thankful for the opportunity. My commitment has remained steadfast to support the families, communities and businesses of our district now and for future generations through investments in elementary and higher education, economic development and through state policies that encourage the full potential of all Minnesotans."

"When I was first elected, Carol and I had young children and an Angus cattle farm. Now our three children are grown up, married with families of their own and we have eight lovely grandchildren. This is the right time for us to spend more time with each other and our family. I am most thankful to my family for being my best supporters during this rewarding journey."

"I am proud of the opportunities we have created to serve the people of Minnesota. The 1985 Post Secondary Open Enrollment Program enabled thousands of qualified students to take college level courses while still in high school. In the 1990s we established the Minnesota Education Telecommunication Council as an electronic network to connect post-secondary education institutions, public libraries and K12 schools around the state. And our response to the floods of Northwest Minnesota not only rebuilt our communities but set standard practices for disaster management response at the state and federal level."

"As I reflect on my experiences, I appreciate the good fortune to work with all legislators, regardless of their party affiliation, to shape legislative changes that made Minnesota a better state. I look forward to rolling up my sleeves during the upcoming legislative session to advance a strong bonding bill to help communities with their infrastructure needs and job creation."

In addition to serving as the chair of Senate Capital Investment Committee, Senator Stumpf has previously chaired the Senate Education Policy and Finance Committee and the Higher Education Finance Committee.

Garden Valley Partners with Fertile-Beltrami School to Broadcast Events on GVTV

Garden Valley is excited to announce a partnership with the Fertile-Beltrami School, which is the second school Garden Valley has partnered with in its service area, to broadcast school and community events on a GVTV local content channel dedicated solely to the Fertile-Beltrami School. Channel 32 is now up and running. Garden Valley provided all the equipment Fertile-Beltrami needs to broadcast their events, and is in the process of working with additional area schools to provide the same service.

Fertile-Beltrami is using students to broadcast their events on Channel 32. This is a wonderful training opportunity for students; and is a unique opportunity for all GVTV subscribers to view events broadcast on all local content channels as they become available.

In the photo with the broadcast equipment, are Garden Valley Service Supervisor Andy Knott, Garden Valley District Representative Sam Finseth, Superintendent Brian Clarke, and students who will assist with the broadcasts. Available events will be posted on Garden Valley's Facebook page and website at www.gvtel.com.

Red Lake to Tap Sun, Solar Electric for Major Tribal Buildings

Story and Photos
 By Michael Meurers

The Red Lake Band of Chippewa Indians signed a formal agreement with the Winkelman Building Corporation and Innovative Power Systems, Inc., to design, engineer, procure, construct, and project manage solar energy projects for the three Red Lake casinos and various other tribal government buildings, and approved the utilization of the Olson Energy Corporation for the financing of said solar energy projects. The signing ceremony took place at noon on Thursday, February 18, 2016, at the Red Lake Government Center.

The solar power plan is divided into three phases, with the first addressing the process of adding equipment to buildings. The first phase consists of developing between $20-$30 million in solar energy equipment, as well as solar energy training for the Red Lake workforce.

The main part of the first phase, the installation of various photo-voltaic arrays, will commence soon on Red Lake Nation buildings including Seven Clans Casinos at Red Lake, Thief River Falls, and Warroad, Red Lake Government Center, Red Lake Nation College, Humanities Center, Justice Complex, Comprehensive Health - Hospital & Nursing Home, and Boys and Girls Club at an estimated savings of over $1.6 million per year.

Red Lake will install 15 megawatts - equal to 15 million watts - worth of solar panels across the rooftops of our largest buildings. When they're done, the panels will generate enough power to light every bulb in the tribe's three casinos, the tribal college and all government buildings.

It's one of the largest solar projects planned in northern Minnesota, and tribal leaders said it is a big step toward energy independence for the Red Lake Nation. Ft. Ripley has a 10-megawatt system on a solar farm covering 100 acres.

"A well known and admired part of American Indian culture is an environmental ethic, a respect for the land. That coupled with Red Lake's reputation for leadership in Indian Country and its unique status, may draw more attention to the benefits of solar energy," noted one participant. "Red Lake could become a pilot project or role model for other non-profits and tribal or city governments in a more noticeable way than say a Ft. Ripley."

After an invocation by Red Lake Chairman Darrell G. Seki, Sr., Jobs & Community Development Facilitator Eugene

"Bugger" McArthur, also acting as emcee, welcomed the group and described the agenda. It would include words from IPS, The Olson Group and Winkelman Construction, in addition to comments by McArthur and Seki. A Ceremonial Signing of the agreement, a lunch/social, and an informal press conference would follow speeches.

Eugene "Bugger" McArthur, Red Lake Jobs & Community Development Facilitator stated "I am so proud and it is truly an honor for me today to be able to share with all the implementation of Phase I of the Red Lake Nation Solar Energy plan for the future," said McArthur. "This solar energy plan for the Red Lake Nation moves forward a project that was set in motion last year by band Chairman Seki with the full endorsement of the Tribal Council, then directed for me to develop."

McArthur said the development of the planned solar energy projects, displays the Red Lake Nation's commitment to:

- Preservation & conservation of our environment;
- Providing an energy source which is compatible with our Tribal beliefs of living in harmony with nature;
- Improving the quality of life, training for our labor force, & employment, jobs for our People;
- The development of cost savings in the operation of our facilities & providing a steady source of revenue;
- The diversification of our economy & investments;
- Providing a clean, renewable source of energy for our People;

David Winkelman with Innovative Power Systems (IPS), of St. Paul, is one of the largest renewable energy design and installation companies in Minnesota. They have designed and installed hundreds of solar energy systems since 1991, by far more than any other contractor in state. They will provide all electrical, structural, and civil engineering on all sites and provide training for Tribal members in the solar energy industry.

Beltrami Commissioner Introduces Presidential Candidate

Story and Photos
 By Michael Meurers

Beltrami County Commissioner and Red Lake Band member Tim Sumner, was honored to be one of two persons selected by the Senator Bernie Sanders campaign to introduce the Presidential Candidate at a rally held at the historic Hibbing High School in Hibbing, MN on Friday, February 26, 2016.

Sumner who welcomed the crowd was representing area tribal nations. Former State Representative and current St. Louis County Commissioner, Tom Rukavina of Virginia, MN who was representing labor and iron range steelworkers followed him. In addition to Sumner, Red Lake Tribal Representative from Little Rock, Robert "Charlie" Reynolds also attended the rally.

Prior to these introductions, Sanders took about 20 minutes for a sit-down with tribal leaders asking questions about issues of concern to Minnesota Ojibwe tribal nations. Ten or twelve representatives from Red Lake, Bois Forte, Leech Lake and White Earth sat at a table and fielded questions from Sanders about issues. Sanders was somewhat taken aback to hear of the health, education, drug, and unemployment challenges of area tribes. He was also heartened to hear of Red Lake's new solar initiative. Sanders was very supportive sharing many of the same issues of concern to American Indians. After several photos, Sanders then went on to visit with steelworkers for about the same amount of time.

Natives and Sanders agreed on pipelines, alternative energy, employment, and broadband in rural areas. There seemed to be little disagreement. After a very respectful yet informal discussion, Sanders asked to be excused saying that he had been meeting with Native American leaders across the country. He apologized for the short meeting and thanked everyone for meeting with him.

In the ornate 1800 seat high school auditorium, Sumner kicked off the rally. He began his remarks by introducing himself in Ojibwemowin, and then to wild cheers asked if the group if they were "Feeling the Bern."

"It's a pleasure to be here, I'm very excited to have this honor."

After going through some of the issues that tribal leaders discussed with Sanders moments before, Sumner concluded his remarks with, "Who's ready for the revolution?" after the applause subsided, he said, "I encourage you to get out to caucus and support Bernie Sanders."

Sanders went through much of his stump speech. At one point talking about Super Pac's, Sanders said, "you are a super, super Pac, and I'd rather have you on my side a million times over than all the money in the world from wall street."

"At $225,000 per speech for Goldman Sachs, you've got to be a really good speaker," Sanders said to laughter. "The New York Times said in an editorial it would be a good idea to release the transcripts because what you say behind closed doors might be different from what you say to the American people. I would hope she would Curling is a game played on ice, in which round, flat, large stones are slid across the surface toward a mark. Members of a team use brooms to sweep the surface of the ice in the path of the stone to control its speed and direction.

Northland Band Season Approaches

Attention all musicians, both past and present, the Northland Community Band will begin its spring schedule starting 7 p.m., Monday, March 14, in the Northland College band room. The band, which is always in search of new players, provides a great place to utilize your musical skills while having a fun, creative time with people, from ages 14-70+, who come from all over northwest Minnesota.

However, you might be thinking, I no longer have my band instrument. In that case, the band can help out since it has a flute, two clarinets, and trumpets, trombones, horns, baritones, and tubas as well as all forms of percussion instruments.

And for those of you who may be feeling that it's been too long since you last played, you have an expert teacher, musician, and director in Linda Samuelson, who can reinvigorate your musical skills in no time at all. Remember that playing an instrument is much like riding a bicycle—the skill comes back almost as soon as you get back on!

If you're also concerned about the time commitment, it isn't the least bit onerous. The band meets each Monday from 7 to 9 p.m. from March 14 to May 9 with two concert performances: a spring concert on Tuesday, May 2, at 7 p.m. and the Northland Community and Technical College graduation on Thursday, May 12, at 6:30 p.m. The music for the concerts will emphasize the lighter nature of spring music and will likely have a march or two as well as a couple of novelty numbers that are as fun to listen to as they are to play. Final music choices will be made based on instrumentation.

For more information you can contact Linda Samuelson, Music Director, at 218-683-8717 or by email at linda.samuelson@northlandcollege.edu. Northland Community and Technical College is a member of the Minnesota State College and Universities system and is an Equal Opportunity educator and employer.

Ice fishing shelter removal dates approaching

Deadlines for removing fish houses, dark houses and portable shelters from state waterways are rapidly approaching, according to the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources.

Dates of removal are determined by an east-west line formed by U.S. Highway 10, east along Highway 34 to Minnesota Hwy. 200, east along Highway 200 to U.S. Highway 2, and east along Highway 2 to the Minnesota-Wisconsin border.

Shelters located south of this line must be removed by the end of the day on Monday, March 7.

Shelters located north of this line must be removed by the end of the day on Monday, March 21.

Exceptions are Minnesota-Canada border waters (March 31), Minnesota-Iowa border waters (Feb. 20), Minnesota-South Dakota and North Dakota border waters (March 5), and Minnesota-Wisconsin border waters (March 1).

"Anglers with permanent houses on the lakes should be reminded that the removal date for those shelters is approaching along with warmer temperatures," said Conservation Officer (CO) Tony Salzer of Ham Lake.

"Please remove your ice shelters early if ice conditions begin to deteriorate," he added.

CO Luke Gutzwiller of Madison had this advice: "Please remember to pick up your trash when leaving the lake."

DNR officials said if shelters are not removed, owners will be prosecuted and structures may be confiscated and removed, or destroyed by a conservation officer.

After removal dates, shelters may remain on the ice between midnight and one hour before sunrise only when occupied. Storing or leaving shelters on a public access is prohibited.

The DNR's Enforcement Division Director Col. Rodmen Smith recommended checking ice thickness with an auger or spud bar before venturing onto a frozen pond, lake or river.

Smith said ice conditions can vary greatly, and anglers should know about the different types and characteristics of ice. Slush shows weakening of ice and should be considered a danger sign. If ice at the shoreline is cracked or squishy, people should stay off. People should not go on the ice during thaws. Honeycombed ice, dark snow and dark ice should be avoided. Ice is generally thinner where there is moving water, such as near inlets and outlets, bridge abutments, islands and other objects that protrude through the ice.

According to information from the DNR Boat and Water Safety Unit, a minimum of 4 inches of new, clear ice is necessary for ice fishing; snowmobiling or ATV activity requires at least 5 inches; 8 to 12 inches are needed to support a car or small pickup; 12-15 inches are needed for a medium truck.

stopped, what documents are needed to present to the Trooper. Also what do they look for if a truck is weighed?

Answer: I will list what is covered in a "level 1" inspection, done along with weight enforcement.

North American Standard Inspection: An inspection that includes examination of driver's license; medical examiner's certificate and Skill Performance Evaluation (SPE) Certificate (if applicable); alcohol and drugs; driver's record of duty status as required; hours of service; seat belt; vehicle inspection report(s) (if applicable); brake systems; coupling devices; exhaust systems; frames; fuel

Retro is stylin these days. It fits the taste of many forward thinkers by going backwards in time when decorating the space in which they live. Orange and olive green are scattered throughout as funky doodle embellishes sophistication. An era in time brought back to the forefront of décor could be the definition of retro. Another definition could read...visiting cobwebbed areas of the mind in order to retrieve thoughts from the era in which they'd been filed within the memory banks.

And thus it was. I was shuffling papers one morning before church, and shifting down through the sands of time came a thought out of nowhere. Front and center was this. If Jesus came back, and I was doing what I was doing at any given moment, could I look Him in the eye without guilt or shame? And, what would His eyes reflect as He looked directly back into mine at that moment? As a young person, I pondered these things. Thoughts like these kept my heart in check with a desire to live faith in action. Through many ages and stages of development, I know I did not always live up to these intentions.

However, curious to me was that I'd formulated these thoughts in my early teens. How

The John Deere Model C or GP?

By Auctioneer, Eric Mickelson
By the mid-1920's the John Deere model D had propelled the company into race as far as tractor sales. Henry Ford's Fordson was first followed by International Harvester. Third was John Deere followed by Case. John Deere only had one tractor on the market at this time, the Model D, while IH had three tractors (the 10-20, 15-30, and the Farmall Regular).

Since Farmall had came out with the popular tricycle design and multipurpose tractor, Deere and Co. engineers went searching for a tractor more suited for row crop farming. Their answer was the Model C. Smaller than the D, with an arched front axle, the C was able to cultivate or plant three rows at a time instead of two (like the Farmall). Soon phone conversations made distinguishing between D and C difficult. In August of 1928 the decision was made to change the name of the C to GP (General Purpose). The GP was the only John Deere tractor with a horizontal engine to use the L head design.

Deere officials soon found the three row design was a failure. The GP's also had some trouble in the field so engineers looked to repeat the success of the Farmall tricycle tractor. Their answer was the the GPWT (General Purpose Wide Tread). The narrow front tricycle design of the GP became a success in areas where the cultivation of crops like cotton and corn was necessary. By this time Henry Ford had left the tractor business, now Deere was running second in tractor sales behind only International Harvester. Interestingly a couple of other special versions of the do these thoughts about His second coming and the effects on my own behavior enter into the young at heart? As I've parented many, and taught even more throughout the years, words in lecture form usually ring hollow. Nobody explicitly teaches much, but His Word, heard daily, must have permeated the membranes of my heart. Words alone could not convict unless they were His.

Taking part in anything which is not of Him is never pleasant for those who know Him. It's empty. Like a chocolate bunny, sin is hollow; chunks merely shattered because that which appeared solid, was not. Hollowness and emptiness is all that is within. Outer coverings make things look good, but in truth, it's often just packaged to tempt.

Wisdom given when young was truth. Truth is...He will come again. Truth is...I needed to be about my Father's business. Truth never rings hollow and it's always stylin. His Word is always in fashion and makes quite a statement at that. It's about as retro as you can get, and perhaps something worth looking into.

Colossians 3:1 reminds us how we have been raised...with Whom...in Whom. It goes on to tell us how our hearts should be stylin on things from above. "Since, then, you have been raised with Christ, set your hearts on things above,"

Psalm 25 brings further clarity. "Guide me in Your truth. Remember, O Lord, Your great mercy and love, for they are of old. Remember not the sins of my youth and my rebellious ways; according to Your love remember me. My eyes are ever on the Lord. To You, O Lord, I lift up my soul; in You I trust O my God." Amen.

GP were adapted for market needs. In 1930 a special Series P was built for potato farmers in Maine. Others were fitted with tracks by the Lindeman Company of Yakima, Washington. There were called GP-

O (orchard) crawlers. Although a relatively short production run, the GP and GPWT met the needs of many farmers. This kept John Deere in the "race" as far as tractor production was concerned.

Dax Wayne Derby

Dax Wayne Derby passed away in utero before being born on February 2nd, 2016 at 4:21 am to proud parents Jason and Sara Derby of Bagley. He weighed 7 lbs and 5 oz and was 20" long.

We really never got to say hello but goodbye too soon. You will always be in our hearts; you are an angel in the sky that watches over us every day. Just remember that your mom and dad need you, Grandmas and Grandpas too; so just wait for all of us to be there with you one day. We love you Dax that's a given, we only wish that you could be here on Earth with us instead. God had other plans as he needed an angel to protect us all so you would not let us fall. Until we meet again in Heaven one day, know that you are truly loved and dearly missed by family every day.

Dax is survived by his parents, Sara (Ehlers) and Jason Derby of Bagley, sisters Kali and Amya, Grandparents Robert and Theresa Derby of Bagley and Grandparents Wayne and Sheryl Ehlers of Clearbrook; also uncles, aunts and cousins as well.

Services held for Albert Lowell Rasmussen

Albert Lowell Rasmussen, 84, Fertile, Mn, passed away on February 18, 2016, at Pioneer Memorial Care Center, Erskine, Mn. He was born on May 24, 1931, in McIntosh, Mn, to parents Albert and Ida (Solie) Rasmussen. He graduated from Mac High in 1949, attended Concordia College in Moorhead, Mn, and served in the US Navy in 1952.

On October 1, 1955, Lowell was united in marriage to Marian Buchholz at Samhold Lutheran Church in Gonvick, Mn. They settled in Fertile in 1957, where they raised their three sons. He was employed in his father's farm implement business, at Garden Valley Telephone as the Fertile-area serviceman, and for twenty five years at Stone's Mobile Radio in Grand Forks, ND. He retired in 1987. Lowell moved to the nursing home in August, 2012.

Lowell's curiosity and expertise in mechanics, electronics, and inventing hallmarked his entire life, both in vocation and leisure. From his youth spent repairing radios, later working on complex communication systems, and always improving on or inventing unique tools and gadgets, his passion for knowledge, insight, and ideas was unceasing. Self-taught in several advanced disciplines, he excelled at understanding technical details and troubleshooting problems. Lowell's home library contained physics and calculus textbooks, books on optics, machining, and hydraulics, and computer programming. He loved cutting firewood, listening to big band music, playing trombone, and swimming. His interests expanded throughout his life. The light of his life was Marian, whom he felt incredibly blessed to have met and shared so many years. Lowell was a quiet, humble man—a devoted husband and father; an honest and conscientious worker, neighbor, and citizen; a man of stories, of workshop wizardry, and possessed a gentle, sensitive heart. Blessed be his memory.

do that. Hillary Clinton said she'd do it if other people did it, I am prepared to release all the transcripts from speeches I made on Wall Street...and here they are," Sanders said making a motion of throwing a stack of papers into the crowd to wild cheers.

"I don't have to tell anybody in this room that the way we have treated Native Americans from Day 1 is a national disgrace. The levels of poverty, the lack of health care, the lack of educational opportunity, that is not acceptable, and together we will change that. Together we will change that."

"If we can win here in Minnesota, we've got a real path to victory for the democratic nomination," said Sanders.

Sanders made the campaign stop on the Iron Range to rally support just days before Super Tuesday, May 1 at 6:30 pm when Minnesota will be one of 12 states casting votes for presidential hopefuls.

with nature," Winkelman went on. "My vision for the Red Lake Nation is to power your homes, your government buildings, your local businesses, your schools, your farms, the Seven Clans casinos, your workshops, big buildings, small buildings and anywhere electricity or heat is required with power more straight from the sun. Solar systems can eventually be installed by the members of the Red Lake Nation on their own buildings and provide a good return on investment and create jobs and an internal industry for you."

"Our team is here to put up solar equipment on your buildings and at the same time, help you learn the solar industry. My vision is that your nation will eventually have thousands of installations of solar electric and batteries, solar heating and storage, smart controls and interconnections with the local power companies and everyone else through having your own power companies in your own homes more directly from the sun. You can also start your own solar businesses, employing your people in clean solar product manufacturing, solar installations and solar equipment service. There are many jobs that will be created when the Red Lake Nation starts creating their own local power companies with solar."

The installation won't be cheap. Winkelman estimates the cost at upwards of $20 million. The band itself will only pay $100,000 for the project, with the vast majority of costs shouldered by the Olson Energy Corporation, which specializes in shuttling solar developers through the government incentive system.

Robert A. Olson, President, of Olson Energy Corporation has developed a financial plan to assist in addressing the financial needs for solar energy development. US tax law provides a variety of benefits to developers and owners of renewable energy projects as non-taxed entities such as units of government cannot benefit directly from these incentives.

"I am very, very proud and humbled to be here today at the Red Lake Nation," Olson began. On behalf of Olson Energy Corporation, I am extremely grateful that we will be able to provide this significant solar energy facility to you as a gift. Our work is just beginning so I hope to see a lot of each other over the next months. When this gift is completed five years from now, it is estimated that the Red Lake Nation will save over $20,000,000 dollars in energy costs over the next several decades."

"But, now is the time to stop polluting our planet and utilize a source of energy that is now available to us without the very, very harmful consequences of fossil fuels and the potential danger of nuclear power," said Olson. "We, at Olson Energy, are very proud to have been able to develop the formula to allow for gifts of solar and wind energy to native tribes and other entities such as Universities and Cities and Municipal Power Companies."

"As a very boring tax attorney, I know that our government has provided very, very significant tax and other incentives for the development of fossil fuels and nuclear power. The tax incentives that we are utilizing pale in comparison to those that have been provided by our government to our gas and oil companies over the decades," said Olson. "It is our honor and pleasure to know that we have developed a method of providing renewable energy as gifts to not only native tribes but also that we will be providing such to cities and counties and other nonprofit organizations such as universities and public schools and other tax-exempt entities such as municipal power companies over the next number of years."

The Olson Group will use government tax credits and incentives to recoup their investment, and gift the solar arrays to the tribe after five years. At that point, the tribe will own the panels free and clear.

Darrell G. Seki, Sr., Chairman, Red Lake Band of Chippewa Indians after recognizing attending Tribal Council members, Secretary Don Cook, Treasurer Annette Johnson, and Ponemah Representatives Gary Nelson and Randy Kingbird, Seki began the last speech of the afternoon.

"This is a step for us as an Indian Nation a step toward alternative energy, and it's going to be a big opportunity with our businesses, our homeowners," he began. "Maybe in a few years, five years or longer, solar panels will be their electricity. We won't have to depend on Beltrami Electric. We'll provide our own energy resources for our people. That's always been in my mind for our nation, it's a great opportunity for us."

"But before I conclude my statements I'm going to talk about the environment a little bit too," said Seki. "What has happened regarding our environment, the pollution that has happened, it will continue to happen if we don't go to alternative energy for our resources, our lakes."

"Members of the Red Lake Band have always sustained themselves with fish from our storage lake, Miskwaagamii-wizaaga'iganing, which is Red Lake," Seki quickly explained. "Our Red Lake commercial fishery has been an important part of the tribe and the regional economy for a hundred years. Red Lake Walleye are famous as the best walleye in the world. They are enjoyed at home, around the country and even our world leaders."

"But the lakes in Minnesota, all over US, have been contaminated by mercury and other toxic substances, and so have our fish," he said. "Man-made air pollution is the cause of this poison. Seventy percent of the mercury present in our lake's fish is from coal burning power plants, mining and related activities. Solar panels will provide heat, light, and energy without burning fossil fuels, and coal which harm our air, water, fish, and wildlife. These solar panels will provide energy for our enterprises and homes of our tribal members. And our schools will benefit for years to come and generations. We owe it to our future generation to protect our environment; we are doing our part here today. One thing is certain alternative energy sources such as solar energy are the key to the future of the Red Lake Nation."

In five years, Seki plans to generate enough solar power on tribal land to supply every home on Red Lake. "We'll provide our own energy for our people, not from the power plants that pollute our lakes."
